

§20 AZG Exceptional cases

General

According to the Austrian Working Hours Act, the maximum daily working time is currently 10 hours. Exceeding this maximum working time is only permitted in justified exceptional cases (see §20 of the Working Time Act¹).

WARNUNG

It should also be noted that in exceptional cases where this rule cannot be complied with, work must be reported to the Labour Inspectorate in writing (within 4 days)!

Therefore, the time in the personnel cloud that exceeds this limit is capped (cut off) by default and shown as unvalued time in the journal.

With the help of the request §20 AZG Exceptional cases, this unvalued working time, which had to be performed due to a valid case of exemption, can be reclaimed.

- Date
 - the date for which the maximum daily working time may be justified
- Comment
 - Reference should be made here to the nature of the exceptional case
- Daily working hours
 - Depending on whether the application has already been approved or not, the capped or uncapped real time appears here at

If the daily maximum working time is exceeded, the journal shows the following:

- Booking 06:00 to 20:00 = 13:30 hours working time (14 hours minus 30 minutes lunch break) - due to the capping only 10:00 hours are shown as a real time, the missing 3:30 hours are shown as unvalued working time.

Journal

Juli 2015

Datum	Tag	K	FB	Buchungen	FE	Fehlgründe	Sollzeit	Istzeit (anrechenb. Anw.)	unbew. Arbeitszeit	Summe	Saldo	Autom. Pausenabzug
06.07.2015	Mo	7	-	06:00 - 20:00	-		3:51	10:00	3:30	21:33	0:00	0:30

To be credited with the unevaluated (capped) time of 3:30 hours, the employee must complete the application and click on the Start Process button to forward it to the manager for approval:

Prozess starten

Journal ausblenden

tägl. Berechtigung(en): - 10h. Kappung deaktivieren

Datum

06.07.2015

Bemerkung

Die Systemstörung, die am 06.07.2015 um 17:53 aufgetreten ist, musste umgehend behoben werden!

Tagesarbeitszeit

10,00

In außergewöhnlichen Fällen kommen insbesondere folgende Regelungen nicht zur Anwendung:

- Begrenzung der Normalarbeitszeit

After starting the process, you will be forwarded to the Open Requests overview, where you will see all your open requests in chronological order according to when they were created (for more information, see Open Requests). Offene Anträge²

If the manager finally approves the request, the real actual time is immediately visible in the journal - the automatic pause reduction remains.

Journal

<

Approval process

Applicant --> Manager for approval

1. http://www.jusline.at/20._Au%C3%9Fergew%C3%B6hnliche_F%C3%A4lle_AZG.html
2. </daisy/personalwolke-default/5878-dsy.html?language=4>