Tab System - System

The "System" form gives you, as HR admin, the option to record the employee's system settings.

At a glance, you can see whether an employee has full or restricted access, or is locked in the system.

A check mark next to the "Active user" field indicates that the employee has unrestricted access within the functions you have defined.
If the check mark is missing, access to the Personalwolke was locked because the wrong password was entered five times. (How to proceed in this case is shown in the "Password[1]" tab.)

If it is necessary to revoke all access rights from an employee, for example because they have left the company, check the box "User access blocked". The block takes effect immediately.

Under Payroll indicator, an internal abbreviation can be noted for the respective employee.

To make working with the Personalwolke as pleasant and versatile as possible, the employee's preferred language can be set using a selection list. If desired, you can also choose between responsive and classic under Layout/Skin. For responsive, the menu variants Desktop or Mobile are also available.

Checking the option Link page with menu causes the menu to show the logged-in employee where the currently displayed page of the Personalwolke can be found again.

Details on the individual fields can be found under System Field Index[2]
